

IP Application Hosting

Today's Complicated E-Business Environment

As the electronic network continues to be a key part of your business infrastructure, you may find that managing your traffic and mission-critical web applications takes time, money, and expertise that you may not have in-house. But unless these aspects are managed, service interruptions can occur, resulting in lost business and negatively impacting your bottom line, brand, and customer base.

Verizon Business can help with your hosting requirements by offering you a full spectrum of hosting services from data centre services to fully managed applications and advanced IT services. Our portfolio of hosting solutions are designed to meet your networking, infrastructure, and application hosting requirements and our ability to deliver your business applications in a highly available, reliable, and secure environment means we are well positioned to support your business.
